Celebrating its 21st anniversary, ECTACO® established its name as the worldwide leader in electronic dictionaries and translators, language learning programs, speech processing technology and linguistic software. With the largest language database and an incomparable team of linguists ECTACO® managed to develop their products from simple hand-held translators to personal tutors and devices that break down any language barrier for instant communication between people.

In addition to its role in the consumer market, ECTACO® proved itself within the military, law enforcement communities, government agencies, and education institutions by providing effective language solutions.

With the first release of the jetBook® eBook Reader in 2008, ECTACO® became recognized as the most portable device on the market with the greatest accessibility to content through its multi-format support. The jetBook® has already been incorporated into many classrooms in the US and around the world, with a goal to have students utilizing the jetBook® as the universal reading device of the future.
